TECHNICAL GUIDELINES ORIENTEERING COMPETITION 2009

This will be run in the "Hacienda Santa Martina" estate, which has 900 hectares of natural landscape located at the foothills of the Andes to the north-east of Santiago's urban zones.

Competitors will run a circuit aided by a map and compass, so that they can pass all the control points and find the finish point.

The competitor who takes the least time is the competition winner.

All registered ICC 2009 attendees are entitled to sign up for the orienteering event; up to eighty competitors will be accepted, divided into four categories by sex and age.
